

The ELA sub-committee has focused its work on completing the Matrix and beginning the first draft of our committee report. We also collated the results of the open-ended survey we have collected so far, and began working with Ms. Herrera to extrapolate more data from the DPI Survey. Meanwhile, the Academic Standards Review Commission has re-launched the NC ELA Teacher Survey. The results of the May survey distribution, which had 1,088 respondents, were shared and discussed at our May meeting. I am happy to report that the data garnered from our re-launch, which has so far had ___ respondents, is so far entirely consistent with our first survey sampling. While our committee report will definitely be guided by stakeholder input, it is good to know that we are probably on-track in terms of the conclusions and recommendations that we have made thus far in our draft report.
